

Thanks & Acknowledgements

I'd like to thank everyone who has helped and supported this event, particularly Alex Brondarbit who has been a huge help with registration. Thanks also to all the helpers: Nicola Tallis, Gordon McKelvie, Adam Bowley, Lilly Cespedes, Luke Barnes and Amy Saunders, to Angela Clark who has been extremely helpful with the posters, and to all those who volunteered to chair a session. A huge thanks to Gemma Wheeler-Jones and the conference department for their support and hard work to make the event happen. Finally, many thanks to the History Department at the University of Winchester (particularly Professor Michael Hicks) and the Royal Historical Society for their financial support to make this event possible. I'd also like to thank all the speakers, especially our two keynote speakers, Philip Mansel and Clarissa Campbell Orr, for sharing their research with us.

Upcoming Kings & Queens Conferences (on tour!)

Kings & Queens 4: Dynastic Change & Legitimacy

tentative dates 24-27 June 2015

Hosted by the University of Lisbon, Portugal

Kings & Queens 5: Dynastic Loyalty

Easter 2016

Hosted by Clemson University, South Carolina USA

Publishing

We would like to invite all the speakers to consider submitting their work to the new Royal Studies Journal which is being officially launched here at Kings & Queens 3. This online, open access journal is intended to be a forum for publishing academic research in the field of royal studies. We will be using the highest standards of double blind peer review and will also be accepting multiple languages including English (preferred), French, German, Spanish and Portuguese. We welcome research from all disciplines, geographical contexts and periods as long as it is firmly connected to royal studies. It is our hope that this will provide a more inclusive platform than conference proceedings- instead of a one-off publication which can only include limited numbers of papers, the journal will be ongoing with two issues a year and will also allow for more varied length in terms of submissions.

For more information visit www.rsj.winchester.ac.uk and please direct all queries to info@rsj.winchester.ac.uk.
